BOSTON LIKES HAWAIIAN PINES

Fruit Making Friends for the Islands Throughout the East.

(Special to the Advertiser.)

BOSTON, June 19.—Hawaiian pineapples bid fair to make the Islands known where revolutions, Japanese crises and volcanic eruptions have not made an impression. In the great elevated terminal at Sullivan Square, Boston, curious eyes have spied a sign reading: "Try our Honolulu Pineapple Pie," hanging over the soda fountain. Many Bostonians have tried it and the result of their investigations seems to be favorable for the new dish, which consists of a mound of pineapple ice cream surrounded with Hawaiian sliced pineapple. It is likely that the new dish will be the reigning fad of this summer season and that the name of Honolulu (pronounced Honnylulu by the average soda fountain girl) will have pleasant associations in the minds of many who never heard of the place before.

In fact, Hawaiian pineapple is already a familiar sight on the menu cards of hotels, cafes and restaurants in this locality. The manager of the largest moderate-priced restaurant in Boston told your correspondent that it had a ready sale and was very popular with the patrons of his place, while it was observed to be as popular in one of the best cafes in the city. Even the smaller stores keep it and some of them are pushing it with excellent results. A number of the large importers of groceries in this city and New York are following the trend of affairs and putting up the product under their own brands, while some of the Bahama growers are trying to profit by the extensive advertising campaign of the Hawaiian Growers' Association.

"I am looking forward to a shipment of Hawaiian sliced pineapple which is due here today," said Auditor Neil of the Boston Elevated Railway the other day. "I had some a month ago today and it was the finest thing of the kind I ever tasted. I won't be content until I get some more." It looks as if Hawaii had scored on the pineapple proposition.

MRS. HEADLEE GLAD TO LECTURE IN SEATTLE

"It is very gratifying to me to learn on my return from Kauai that the Promotion Committee plans to send me to Seattle to lecture on the Hawaiian Islands, in connection with the work being done at the Hawaii Building," said Mrs. Frances King Headlee yesterday. "I have lectured before at expositions and the work is very pleasing and far-reaching. It is a splendid opportunity and I am very glad now that I came to Hawaii to see everything for myself. Should I be sent to Seattle I am sure that I can make the lectures so interesting with the new slides that I have and with the aid of the moving pictures of Hawaiian scenes, that a better knowledge of the islands will be carried into all parts of the mainland than before."

"The people interested in the promotion work have been exceedingly kind to me since I have been in the Islands and I will return with a kamaaina spirit which will help me in my talks. My visit to Kauai this past week was fine and I received every kind of help there from the Kauai people. I rode over the island on horseback and in autos, climbed mountain peaks and saw scenery which is more beautiful than I ever beheld elsewhere. It is truly the Garden Isle—I might say as beautiful as the Garden of Eden."
